The men issued yesterday a statement in the case, in which they say that they cannot now retract and do justice to themselves. They say that President Richardson pleads poverty, but that the response of the Company filed at Albany show that his roads have been making money.

The Deacon's advertisement for 500 Americans to operate his horse cars did not bear much fruit. Either there are not that number of Americans unemployed, or they are dismichined to work for the Company, for only a quarter of that number applied for work this morning.

Every man, in making out his application, was required to state that he was an American citizen, and in addition to signing an applica-
